	Land broadcasting station Potsdam with a main radio tower and five other towers, about 15 meters high, from which double antennae were suspended. The southern billeting area of the aldmeisterschule contained nine wooden sheds in which supplies were stored. The quantity and type of supplies were unknown. Sentries guarding the sheds were red-bordered black epaulets with artillery insignia. (2) The Unteroffiziersschule in Potsdam-Eiche was about 80 percent destroyed during the war. The stables in the northwestern section of the billeting area were surrounded by a board fence, 2 meters high, which was illuminated by arc lamps after dusk. One of the two watchtowers there was occupied. (3) Two damaged barracks buildings were located east of the Unteroffizers—schule. They were occupied by an undetermined number of troops. There was no vehicular traffic.
